NEW MATERIAL OUT FOR MEET ON SATURDAY

Records Expected To Be Broken.

FRESHMEN STRONG.

Over Eighty Entries To Date — Many Names To Be Added.

Entries for the Freshman-Sophomore meet will close at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon. The list has been removed from the dressing-room at the Union, but entries may still be made at the hall porter's desk in the Union, where an entry list will be found after noon to-day.

Yesterday the additions to the list were very large, especially on the part of the second year men, who made a large number of entries. According to the present number registered, there is about an equal number of Freshmen and Sophomores scheduled to enter the meet. Naturally the Freshmen could muster many more men to-day, but they will have to hustle to get their names in before the entry list closes. It is not known how many men will be added to the list by the Sophomores to-day, but many of the men who have been training have not entered yet, and they will do so to-day.

It is estimated that about eighty men are already entered on the various lists, and the total should swell to well over a hundred before noon. In all of the sprints it will be necessary to run heats, many of them, and the competition will be keen. The number entered in all of the other events is equally large with the exception of some of the weight events, where there are not so many to be found. It is expected that more will be entered to-day, however, and the list of men in the weight events should be long.

Among the men to compete in the weight events to-morrow are some who should be good men for the team. Dickie will compete in the discus, shot put, and hammer, and will try to come near the university record in at least one event. Camp is another likely looking man who has been turning out for the weights, and, with Consiglio, Amaron, Martineau and several other men who have been out, the events should show some good work even without any further entries.

There will be great surprise among the executive of the Track Club if some of the men in the Freshman-Sophomore meet do not show up very well. Some of the new men have been making excellent time in the (Continued on Page 4.)

R.V. UNDERGRAD SOCIETY MEETS

Miss Hurlbatt Extends a Welcome To Newcomers.

The first meeting of the Royal Victoria College Undergraduates' Society for the session was held in the common room yesterday, with the president, Miss Spier, in the chair. Miss Hurlbatt welcomed the new students with a few well-chosen words. She reminded the members of the society that they owe to the founder much more than the building which they use. An essential feature of a college is that it is a place where staff and students may be of mutual assistance. Miss Hurlbatt expressed the hope that the students would consult the staff from the first in any difficulties they may encounter. She reminded the girls that the R.V.C. is provided with a library, a reading room and a gymnasium, as well as lecture halls, so that everyone has an opportunity to follow the affairs which are taking place in the world to-day, and to keep fit physically. In addition, there is the Undergraduate Society, where one may learn how "affairs of state" are conducted. Everyone has a fair chance and a fine opportunity. And it depends on each individual student whether the resources are wasted or made the most of. In conclusion, Miss Hurlbatt urged the students to co-operate in all things.

The constitution of the society was then read. This was followed by the financial report for the past year by the retiring secretary-treasurer. The (Continued on Page 2.)

RECEPTION TO THE FRESHMEN AT THE HALL

Dr. Thornton and Dr. McMillan Spoke.

FROSH OUTBREAK.

McGill Y.M.C.A. Executive Outlined Work Of the Association.

The first Freshman Reception of the year, which was held in Strathcona Hall last night, was well attended, nearly three hundred Freshmen and upper-classmen turning out for the initial social function of the season.

A. H. McLean, B.A., president of the McGill Y.M.C.A., welcomed the Freshmen. "They are," he said, "the most important part of the student body, for from among them will be recruited the personnel of the athletic and social activities of the next four years." After a few words on the purposes of the organization, he introduced:

Dr. Thornton, Dean of the Faculty of Dentistry, who held the close attention of the men for a few minutes. Dr. Thornton's remarks, in a humorous and informal vein, treated of a large range of subjects, from fish and alligators to college professors, and included several priceless bits of advice, valuable as well to upper year men as to Freshmen. The Dean of Dentistry was pleased to welcome young men to McGill. The name of the University rests on the work of her undergraduates and graduates. "If you never bring disgrace to McGill, McGill will never bring disgrace to you." Every man should do something worth while, especially so the college man, because nothing is so pitiful as a university graduate who is a failure. The doors of life must be opened from the inside, and a good way to start is right now to turn up the corners of your mouth and help somebody.

Mr. McGarry, of Montreal High School, accompanied on the piano by Howard Nichol, gave two much-applauded vocal solos.

Dr. McMillan, a former McGill graduate, and Associate Professor of English at McGill, recalled his first year at the University and his first Freshman Reception in the old Y.M.C.A. He was lonely through his first year at McGill, because he did not make the acquaintance of his fellow-students and professors. It is a fact that there is not enough contact between professor and student.

In a brief sketch of McGill's history, Dr. McMillan touched on a very few interesting phases of its history. At one time the entire University consisted of seven professors and six students, — the salaries of the professors ranging from £5 to £100 a year. The principal had no salary, but was allowed the use of a farm and the cattle on it. Sir William Macdonald and Sir William Dawson both men from the Maritime Provinces, from which Dr. McMillan himself comes, did much to raise McGill from her pitiful state of sixty years ago to her present influence.

Speaking from his own experience, the speaker urged every man to acquire some interest outside his ac-

TENNIS COURTS CROWDED WITH ENTHUSIASTS

Ramsey and Bernard Show Fine Form.

TWO CLASSES.

Every Opportunity To Make Good Will Be Given New Players.

The tennis courts were again crowded to overflowing yesterday afternoon. The most interesting match played was that between Ramsey and Bernard. Each succeeded in winning a set by narrow margins. They both play very much the same kind of game, which is of the driving and smashing type. There were also some good games of doubles played, but these games were a little ragged in spots, which was probably due to the fact that none of the players had ever played together before as partners. This fault should be corrected in a short time, when the team is definitely picked, as certain men will be paired off to play in the Intercollegiate meet.

The players who have been trying for the team were weeded out into two groups yesterday by the executive. Those who are in group A are the ones who are the most apt to obtain places on the team, but this does not mean that the ones who are in group B have no chance. The members in group B have the right to challenge either of the two lowest players in group A, and to obtain their places if they beat them. The players in group A may challenge either of the two men ahead of them. In this manner a man may work his way up in the rating list and so become one of the first six who will eventually constitute the team. The list of the class A men which was prepared, is given below. They are in order of their playing strengths:

C. N. Ramsey
Bernard
Wright
Ward
Farthing
Claxton
O'Halloran
Parker
Douglas
Carlyle
McTaggart
Chisholm
Wardrope
K. Ramsey
McCarthy

The Class B men are the ones who are trying for a place but have not been rated in the first fifteen.

There are still two or three men who have good chances of making the (Continued on Page 2.)

LAW UNDERGRAD HOLDS MEETING

Resignation Of Mr. G. G. Anglin Is Announced.

Owing to the resignation of Mr. G. G. Anglin from the presidency of the Law Undergraduates' Society, a special meeting of the faculty was convened by the vice-president, Mr. F. D. Genest to officially note the same.

The vice-president took the chair at 9.30 a.m., and called the large gathering to order. In a brief address he welcomed the new students. He then touched on the outstanding achievements of the students during the last session, stating that last year was probably the greatest in the history of the faculty, both from an academic point of view and as regards the faculty spirit, which was very much to the fore in every direction. The Law Indoor Baseball team won the University championship, while the Hockey and Football teams covered themselves with glory. Mention of the "Law Dinner" was signalized by much cheering, and it was some time before the meeting was restored to order. The secretary then read the Anglin letter of resignation, which the faculty accepted with regret. Mr. O'Halloran's question as to the discharging of certain bills connected with the Law Dinner was held over to the general faculty meeting, which will be called as soon as a president is elected.

Nominations for the position may be handed in to the secretary, C. P. Nolan, up to noon, Tuesday, October 12th, 1920. Election day is Friday, October 17th.

CONCERNING "SPARTACUS"

We feel called upon, in self-defence, to make a few remarks anent certain letters that have appeared in the Correspondence Column of "McGill Daily." Of course, the communications signed "Spartacus" are the ones to which we refer, and we have no doubt that most of our readers have felt some wonder that we did not before this comment upon them.

As is quite plain to the casual reader, these letters attack in a sweeping fashion the editorial policy of the "Daily," in fact so fierce, and at the same time undeserved, were the fulminations of "Spartacus" that we were at first under the impression that he could safely be disregarded without our drawing upon ourselves the imputation that we were avoiding a straightforward statement of opinion.

In this, it seems, we were mistaken. It would have been wiser to have crushed "Spartacus" pompous collection of exaggerations and absurdities at the outset, and so have avoided the truly ridiculous pass to which the matter has come. Just as in a debate it is the height of folly to pass over the weakest of an opponent's arguments as beneath contempt, so, we feel, we should be doing ourselves and the student body, our public, an injustice by refraining from issuing some sort of corrective to the false statements set forth by our correspondent.

The original raison d'être of the criticism launched at us — the soliciting and printing of "forewords" in the "Daily" — has been thoroughly dealt with in two letters we have already printed, and it was shown that "Spartacus" had condemned as "eulogies" of the "Daily" the whole of the eight "forewords," merely because one of them happened to contain something of a laudatory nature. When our readers look at the letter printed in to-day's paper, they will see that "Spartacus" coolly omits all reference to this original question, and makes a slashing attack on the editorials in the issue of Thursday, because they do not measure up to his pre-conceived idea of what an editorial should be.

Just a few words will suffice to show how utterly mistaken he is. The leading article on the subject "Let Us Reciprocate" was not in any sense a "thinly-veiled advertisement." It was an appeal to the students to support and patronize the firms advertising in the "Daily," for the reason that upon the volume of advertising matter secured rests the financial success or failure of the paper. The undergraduate body, through their representatives, the Students' Council, are the persons most interested in such success or failure. When this is realized the purpose of the editorial is plain.

"Spartacus" cavils at the other editorials because they echo the news items. When, pray, was it known that editorials did otherwise (within reasonable bounds)? If our correspondent reads the leading newspapers of Montreal he will find each important development of the world situation commented on, explained or used as a basis for prophecy, in the editorial column. An editorial policy that does not keep pace with events is "outworn."

In writing that nothing was added to the bare facts but good-wishes, "Spartacus" is guilty of a deliberate mis-statement, for the suggestion was brought forward in the editorial "The Golf Tournament" that a debate, or some similar contest between staff and students might prove a decided success.

And so the tale of "Spartacus" blunders and invidious "digs" might be prolonged but all to no purpose. Our readers, we are convinced, are possessed of sound common sense. Let them judge the matter for themselves. Our policy will not be altered.

Designation of Miss Norah James as vice-pres. of the society was read and accepted. Miss Winifred Birkett was unanimously elected vice-president of the society. Miss Nellie Safford was elected first year representative to the reading room committee. The library committee for the session was then chosen, as follows:

Fourth year—Miss Maud Olding.
Third year—Miss Maud Tuffy.
Second year—Miss Joan Foster.
First year—Miss Phyllis Murray.

The secretary read a letter from the Alumnae Society asking that magazines be sent in for use in the hospitals after they have been read by the students. It was moved and carried that this be done. It was also decided that the Undergraduate Society should hold a series of teas for the other societies. In order to effect this matter, the following committee was chosen:

Chairman—President of Undergraduate Society.
Secretary—Miss Edith Barnes.
Treasurer—Miss Kay Evans.
Members—Miss Mary Fry, Miss Herta Berg.

Correspondence

The "Daily" is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office — that they write upon ONE side of the paper ONLY.

No communications will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for PUBLICATION.

To the Editor, McGill "Daily."

Sir—

Verily, "It is to laugh!" Judging from the extensive comment, some of it, I am afraid, of a rather provincial nature, which my letter has called forth, I have touched certain folk on a very raw place indeed. This in itself, I suppose, might be taken as sufficient justification for writing in the vein I adopted—"If the cap doesn't fit."

But as a matter of cold fact, what do we discover from a careful perusal of the letters in to-day's "Daily"? With the single exception of Mr. Beauchois, with whom I have not the pleasure of an acquaintance, the correspondents are present or past members of the "Daily" staff, and their remarks are confined to eulogies of the work accomplished by the paper (when? In years gone by, presumably) and condemnations—to use no stronger term—of my humble self. One of them ascribes to me the motive of "sour grapes," another suggests that I take up work on the staff instead of presuming to criticize, while the third demands that I point out some method of improving the paper—they all admit it needs improvement.

Well, I accept the challenge. To make my remarks more pointed I shall deal only with to-day's edition. Look at the Editorial Column! What do we find there? Constructive, independent expressions of opinion? Brain food? "Something to chew on?"

No! Of the three editorials, one is merely a thinly-veiled advertisement which no newspaper of any dignity would put forth, and the other two are but echoes from the news columns. Why, the "Golf Tournament" is actually dealt with in TWO news items in the same edition, and the editorial-writer has added nothing to the facts but a few watery good wishes. The matter of bringing up suggestions for a "rapprochement," as he calls it, between staff and students, is left entirely to our readers. O tempora! O mores!

When I see the "Daily" coming out with something other than appeals for assistance and fulminations against would-be critics, I shall feel my object has been accomplished. Until then, I am

SPARTACUS.

To the Editor, McGill "Daily."

Sir—

Permit me to add my voice to the chorus of disapproval raised against the "crank" signing himself "Spartacus." This person is wise in keeping his identity secret except from the long-suffering editors of the "Daily"; undoubtedly he belongs to the class who are safer behind iron bars.

To judge from his high-flown style, he is a new-comer in our midst. He would do well to keep silence until he has attained years of discretion, for the day will come when he will hate to think he ever made such a display of ignorant prejudice. Our advice to such people is "Put up or shut up." Spartacus had better show us his idea of how to run a paper.

Yours truly,

"IMPATIENT"

tric Company, New York, will give a lecture on "Thermionics" on Friday afternoon in the Physics Building, at ten minutes past five. All interested are cordially invited to attend.

GOLF.

The annual golf match between Students and Professors is held on the morning of Sports' Day, Oct. 15th. In the past the Professors have usually shown themselves the supporters of the less-experienced Students, but it is thought that this can be overcome by better organization this year.

It is desired that all Students who wish to play in this match should submit to the "Daily" office their name together with their handicaps, both match and medal, or an approximation of the same on regulation links, with the name of the links.

The team will then be chosen and published some days ahead of the date of the match.

Names should please be submitted at an early date. The list will close on Monday evening, Oct. 11th.

DOUGLAS SOCIAL.

Next Monday evening, Oct. 11th, at 8 p.m., a social is being held in the church parlors of Douglas Methodist Church, corner of St. Catherine and Chomedey streets. McGill students are especially invited to join in the evening's fun and you will receive a hearty welcome from the McGill chaps who are regular attendants there, as well as from the young ladies. Keep this date open then, and come and get acquainted.

BIBLE STUDY GROUP TO MEET ON MONDAY

Splendid Programme For This Year.

SUPPER IN HALL.

Excellent Opportunity For Real Study of Christ Under Competent Leaders.

Next Monday night, following a supper at the Strathcona Hall at 6.30 o'clock, the annual Bible Study canvass will begin. This event has always in the past brought the organization of the Y.M.C.A. into a more or less imperfect hand to hand contact (often conflict) with the lower years in college, for the purpose of enrolling the student body into an intelligent and earnest study and discussion of the Bible and its most striking figures. It is hoped that this year will add substantially not only to the members but also to the penetration of the class men.

What is the purpose of this Bible Study? Is there actually a need for it in McGill, or are we just nourishing an effete convention? What is the real and actual value that a man can gain from attending such a class, or is it merely a bore and waste of time?

In our present day perhaps no more significant need not only in politics but also in religion (note the artificial distinction) is realized than that of men of character. Emerson said, "Men of character are the conscience of the society to which they belong." Character dominates in any sphere, but men of character are men of conviction, of moral courage and stamina, not swayed in the wind of popular whim. If character be then indispensable for rational or human evolution, it behooves us to cultivate it if we do not possess it. Mere preaching lovely sermons from pulpits or offering delightfully-worded prayers is not going to make men of character or create a conscience in society. Character means work—thought and will to produce. It means the continual presence of an ideal in consciousness and an invincible determination to reach that ideal.

What is the highest ideal of character to which we can turn? Is there any other being who has left his impress on the human mind, who has raised human ethics to such a height as has Jesus of Nazareth? If we are to have character, we must live with men of character. We are not necessarily to become imitations (even if that were possible), but we are to awake within us and develop a soul—a higher type of consciousness which will make our thoughts and actions saner, more powerful and more intelligent.

Hence, for this purpose an attempt is being made this year to present in five classes various aspects of this greatest Master of the Moral Empire. We want no dogmatism, no preaching, no eloquent discourses — we want each student to approach the subject and study it for himself, to push aside his previous conceptions of Jesus and to study Him independently of commentaries and others' opinions. Thus these groups are not meant to be lecture groups but discussion groups, for the expression and cultivation of free, independent thought. What a man thinks out for himself he retains—what he has preached to him he too often forgets.

The courses planned are as follows:

(1)—Prof. Graham—Jesus in the Records

(2)—Mr. Mackay—Jesus in the Records

(3)—Mr. R. deW. Scott—Jesus in the Records

(4)—Prof. Reilly—Manhood of the Master.

(5)—Mr. John Bradford—Social Principles of Jesus.

Sharmar's Jesus in the Records, the method of which is becoming more familiar to McGill men, is the book upon which most emphasis is being laid. It provides a series of penetrating problems and questions on all the phases of Jesus' life and character which the individual is to answer for himself. The class is for the purpose of comparing and discussing the individual conclusions arrived at, and is perpetually bringing before the minds of the students old passages with newer and greater significance.

For the successful accomplishment of our purpose, we feel impelled to call upon all men in the University who are in sympathy with us to help us in this canvass, so that the harvest which is great may not spoil because the reapers are few.

RECEPTION TO THE FRESHMEN AT THE HALL

demio work. Have a hobby. Above all, DON'T FORGET YOUR HOME TRAINING.

Van Wagner, coach of the track teams, rehearsed the requirements of the Physical Department. The first duty is to studies, the next to physical welfare and development. The Track Club needs material, and there will be room for everybody. Even if all do not make teams this year, it is only by working that a man can attain athletic prominence.

Common then led the Freshmen in the good old songs and yells—"Come Fill Your Glasses Up," "M-C-G-I-L-L," "Hall, Alma Mater," "Rah, Rah, Rah for Old McGill," and so on, were given with a gusto and vim that argues well for the success of the Rooter's Club. Incidentally, Common made an appeal for this club, which is soon to be launched.

Mr. McKay, secretary of the McGill Y.M.C.A., reviewed the purposes of the association, and invited all men to take part in the activities of the organization. He referred to the Ceylon Mission, to the various branches of the work carried on in connection with the Y.M., and ended with an appeal in support of Bible Study. The idea of the University is to develop men, real men, and the man who has thought deeply on religious things, who has got down to bed rock, is the man who will be worth while, though his thinking may not have followed the orthodox and dogmatic school of some individuals.

O'Meara, Arts representative on the Students' Council, spoke for some length on the constitution and objects of the Council, and of its various branches and sub-societies. He reviewed the system of student government, touched on the distribution of finances, urged interest of the students in their politics and government, and support for their athletic and social organizations. The Rifle Club and the English Rugby Club, which have been discontinued since 1914, are being reorganized this week, and offer opportunities for every man in the University. Please give them your hearty support.

Immediately after O'Meara's remarks, refreshments were served. They were much appreciated and disappeared with amazing and remarkable rapidity, enough being left, however, to furnish the "Daily" staff with a fair share, which we hasten to acknowledge.

Unfortunately, the evening was cut short by a whisper among the uneasy and timorous Freshmen that the Sophs were waiting outside. Hastily dashing their ice-cream to the floor, and grabbing handfuls of cake, the wild-eyed and feverish Frosh tore out to see "what was doing." They saw, if late reports which have reached the office, are to be credited.

INITIAL TRIALS AT STADIUM

All Men Other Than Freshmen and Sophomores To Compete.

All track candidates who are not turning out for the meet to-morrow are asked to compete in trials which will be held on the stadium this afternoon. This means that the trials will be only for the men in years other than the first and second, as all Freshmen and Sophomores who are out for track must necessarily compete to-morrow.

The trials will be held from four o'clock onwards, and all of the men are asked to be out at that time. Men who have lectures at that time are asked to turn out, and arrangements will be made whereby they will be given their attendance at the lectures. The sprinters will be tried out as soon after four o'clock as possible, and the field and distance events after that time.

As these trials will serve to give the coach an opinion about the ability of the various candidates for the track team, all the men are asked to be out as early as possible. With the result of these trials and those of the meet to-morrow, a fair idea may be gained of what men can be depended upon for the University meet next week.

team who have not had an opportunity to turn out as yet, but will be out in a day or two to practice. The courts have been so crowded lately that some of these new men have not been able to get in a game. To remedy this state of affairs, the executive would like to appeal to the sportsmanship of the weaker players to give the new men a chance. There are many men playing at present who must realize that their chances are not very good for becoming one of the first six, and yet they occupy the courts daily. Now is the time when the club should try the utmost to improve the playing of the few best players in order that our team may be successful in the coming meet. The only way to do this is for the weaker players to help along by giving up the courts to the stronger ones. It may seem unfair to ask some to do this, but it is for the good of the college, and everyone should be ready to help the team come back with the honors from Toronto.

Players are again reminded that the entries for the tournament close this afternoon, and that all must be medically examined before playing. The entry list will be left up at the club house until 5 o'clock in order to give men all the chance possible to get their names down. The draw will be in the "Daily" on Saturday morning, so that the play will commence on the same day.

Do not despise theory, but test it; for theory is always the foundation of practice.

Your Railways And The Cost of Living

BEFORE the Privy Council at Ottawa protest against the new railway rates has been made on the grounds that the giving of the new rates would raise the cost of living by a percentage many times higher than the percentage actually charged by the Canadian railways.

It was pointed out that the numerous middlemen who act as the distributors of goods would each add his percentage of profit to the freight rate, so that although the railways might only receive say 40 cents additional freight charge on a shipment the public would be forced, by the distributing middlemen, to pay many times that amount.

The managements of the various Canadian railways desire, through this, their association, to draw the attention of newspaper readers to the highly significant fact that the recent increase in United States railway rates — an increase similar to the increase in Canada — has actually been followed by a decrease in the cost of living in that country.

Furthermore

A great Canadian manufacturer recently made public — without any solicitation and without the previous knowledge of the railway managements — figures which proved that the retail selling price of a yard of plain white cloth in Winnipeg after being hauled from Montreal to Toronto and Toronto to Winnipeg, would be increased only one-half a cent even after the wholesaler had added 20 p.c. profit to the new freight rate and the retailers another 50 p.c.

He showed that these distributors, whether rightly or wrongly, added 15 cents to his mill-price of 16 cents per yard.

Yet the railways carried the raw cotton for this yard of goods from Texas to Montreal, and the finished goods from the mill to Toronto and Toronto to Winnipeg for one-and-one-half cents.

One-and-one-half cents as against fifteen cents.

We venture to believe that, whatever the explanation or the justification may be, the same serious additions to cost by the distributing trades will be found in relation to almost every article of common household use.

This is not to attack distributors. They may themselves be victims of a bad system or of an over-crowded trade. But it is to point out that if they add whatever percentages they, as a trade, find convenient, on top of the freight rates, the railways cannot help either themselves or the public. The oppressive results of these practices should not be charged against the railway managements, nor cited as reasons for holding freight rates down — merely because railway rates can be held down — while other prices soar as the various trades find necessary.

RAILWAY charges always must be a serious item in determining cost of production. But the managements of your railways urge upon your attention this fact: that antiquated, over-loaded and wasteful systems of distributing goods are much more properly a subject for public anxiety.

Canada cannot prosper without prosperous railways. Canadian railways cannot prosper unless Canada prospers

In all sincerity let us suggest that the people of Canada beware of those who would restrict and even strangle the railways simply because control exists there and is not so convenient in other departments of commercial activity.

SOPHS OPEN SEASON FOR INNOCENTS

Baby Show Held In Molson House.

FRESHIES TREAT.

Up-to-Date Methods Used in Well Organized Raid Last Night.

Last night about nine o'clock some fifty Science Freshmen enjoyed a ripping entertainment given by their Sophomore brothers. The second year men called around in autos and waggons for their verdant colleagues. The social centre was in the old Molson House, back of the Stadium. Nor were the taxis and hacks the only means of transportation for the Freshies—motor cycles and young press-gangs performed the work in an unique way.

As early as eight o'clock, bodies of three or four were seen peacefully smoking cigs at various houses near the college. These "would-be innocents," however, were only awaiting the signal from the tricky youth standing on the threshold of an enthusiastic engineer (minus four years).

The drive to the recreation centre was a treat to the Sophs never to be forgotten. It cost the green students but twenty-five cents a head if the jaunt was in a taxi, while the unfortunates who paid for a waggon joy-ride ponied over with half a shekel.

At Molson House, the old site of rushes, where for many years freshies have been subdued, the generous Sci '24 students were royally treated. Hot-blooded youths were pacified with rope bonds. When a fairly good collection of decorated apes had been assembled they were given another treat around their adopted city for the coming winters. The ornamented young gents were then returned to the mountain house.

At the close of the reception at Strathcona Hall, for Commerce, Law and Theolog. Freshmen, about fifty more were conducted to their co-students.

RUGBY SQUAD IN GOOD SHAPE FOR QUEENS' GAME

Several Changes In Line-Up — "Shag" Puts On Final Touches — Lack Of Reliable Spares — Players Optimistic — Junior Squad Will Play Loyola.

When the McGill rugby squad lines up against Queens at Kingston on Saturday afternoon in the opening game of the Intercollegiate series for the 1920 season, the players will take the field firmly convinced that they must win the match and thus make sure of the first points in the fight for the retention of the championship which was gained by the Red and White team last year. While it is recognized that the loss of more than six stars from last year's squad has to a great degree weakened the fourteen, and added to that is the disadvantage of playing away from the home grounds and without the support of the rooters, still the players are convinced that Old McGill will make the grade against the Presbyterians.

From present indications it appears that several surprises are in store for the flock of railbirds who have been fluttering around the side-lines, carefully analyzing the merits of the various candidates, and weighing the chances of the team in the forthcoming league matches. The quarter position has been the subject of much speculation and, generally, around the college discussions have been rife as to who would fill the place left vacant by the captain of last year's squad, Monty Montgomery. Since the enforced retirement of Don Baillie, who has had to quit playing owing to water on the knee, "Boo" Anderson has been holding down the key position, with Normie Wallace filling in on occasion. Now it appears that Wallace will start on Saturday at quarter and that Anderson will be found at his old place at left half, where he will be supported by Flannagan at centre and Jeff Russell at right, making a shifty back line, and one which is sure to cause considerable trouble for the Tri-color. Sully Wilson and Lafoley will most likely be carried as spares.

On the line the Red and White will have a strong aggregation in Captain "Dud" Ross, Punch Parkins, Notman, Ambridge, Livshin, Bill McDonald and Gordie Nicholson, who have been tearing big holes in the third and second teams during the practices this week. Nicholson and Parkins are the likely candidates for the outside positions and should give a good account of themselves as both are fast men and good tacklers. Leo Timmins will be most likely found at centre scrimmage where he has been showing considerable class during the training period. The right middle job will in all probability go to McGregor. This husky line-man is suffering from several nasty bumps and is not in the best condition for a tough game and it is likely that Varsity will figure in the play. "Selby" Cope will be found at his old position at flying wing, and the husky ball-carrier can be relied upon to make plenty of openings.

Decided improvement in the team since its game with the Old Boys last Saturday has been apparent the last few days. Coach Shaughnessy has put the players through four days of strenuous work-outs and will put on the finishing touches this afternoon, prior to the departure of the squad with its contingent of rooters this evening.

Particular attention has been paid to signal practices and to bucking, and as a consequence the men are ready to tear holes in any line that opposes them. The smooth working of the squad in all the plays has been a pleasing feature at the stadium throughout the week. The only matter that gives particular concern is the lack of a sufficient number of seasoned substitutes.

There are plenty of players out to draw from, many of whom show excellent possibilities for future games, but this early in the season they have not quite caught on to the play as desired by "Shag" and as a result when the team faces the Queens' squad it will not be without a certain apprehension. It is felt that if the luck breaks for McGill all will be well, but should there be need for many changes that the Red and White will be at a disadvantage, through a lack of reliable spares.

Training table regulations have had the desired result and the men are now in perfect condition and ready for a gruelling game, while the evening lectures and discussions of plays has led to a perfection of action which has been apparent in the smooth easy manner in which the players have started the plays.

Individually, too, the squad has shown that it has benefited by the instruction, to say nothing of the pointed criticism, of "Shag." Russell, at right half, is showing stellar form and bids fair to prove one of the most effective men on the team. He is speedy, a sure catch, and an able defence player. On the other wing "Boo" Anderson is doing even better and is proving himself to be the most useful man on the Red and White team. He has a great pair of football hands and is about the hardest man in these parts to bring down with a tackle.

Normie Wallace has a hard row ahead of him to fill the quarter back position. He is a keen player and uses his head, but lacks the experience and weight necessary for a secondary defence line man.

Big Jeff Notman is playing his old bucking game on the line and will be ready on Saturday to make the openings necessary for gains, to say nothing of his prowess in stopping his opponents' attempts to push through. "Dud" Ross is playing even better football than last year and should wind up his college career this season with a record rugby year. "Punch" Parkins has lost none of his old spirit of attack and is still rated one of the best tacklers on the team.

In all, with nothing untoward occurring in the match, there is every prospect for a good start for McGill on Saturday.

While the seniors are up at Kingston defending their laurels, the McGill junior squad will open its season with a game at Loyola. The third team has been showing that it is capable of playing sound, yet flashy football. In its practices against the senior squad each afternoon at the stadium the juniors have been standing up to the attacks of the representative squad like veterans and frequently surprise the fans by bucking through the pride of the college for big gains. Yesterday the squad put in a strenuous two hours work-out and to-day will finish off its training when the line-up will be announced.
